EDITORIAL

As camp comes to a fast close, it is time for me to sit down and reflect this camp season.

What did I expect from Camp Kadimah?

What did I accomplish?

I came to get a tan.

It rained a lot but my watch hand got a line.

I came expecting to lose ten pounds.

Unfortunately I did.

I came to work hard in Camp Mahar.

We didn't work hard enough.

We came because some of our parents made us.

But a few didn't stay.

We came to have a good time.

We usually did.

We came to see old friends and make new ones.

We did.

We came to have a summer to remember.

We will.

DIRECTOR'S MESSAGE

" Those were the days, my friend,
We thought they'd never end;
We'd sing and dance forever and a day... "

Do you remember those days, my friends ? Yes, days of joy and singing, of sports and swimming, activities and programmes, a few of sadness, but most filled with friendship and good cheer. Well, they have passed for another season. Time seems to have passed very quickly for us here on the shores of Lake William. However, memories have been made which will last a lifetime.

Camp offers much to many. The challenge is for us, each and every one of us, to take hold of the opportunities made available through the many activities and facets of camp life. For six weeks over 250 Jewish youth are gathered here at Kadimah and by the time of leaving a renewal has taken place, a renewal of tradition and history, of love for our people, our country, and the State of Israel.

Of all that is carried away from camp, perhaps none is more important than the bond of having lived and shared with one another for a summer. It is a bond to be cherished and nurtured for from it springs forth the qualities by which one can live a life -- sportsmanship, spirit, initiative, co-operation, care and love, sacrifice, and that indescribable feeling of "chaverschaft", of true and understanding friendship. Summers will come and go but friendships will last forever.

Now it's time to board the buses and to say farewell for another season. Keep well and happy, and active in Young Judaea.

To all of the Head Staff and Staff, thank you for your efforts and hard work. To Mr. Eisner, Arden and Frank, thank you for all those long days and nights spent at camp. To the Goldsteins, a special thank you. But most of all, thank you, all of you campers, for having made Kadimah '69.

I hope we shall all meet again one day very soon.

As Kadimah '69 comes to a close and we head for the Kadimah of the 70's, let's all say one last time,

Chazak V'Ematz,

Benny Prossin,
Camp Director.

VALEDICTORY

As we stand here at the closing of Kadimah '69 let's reflect on what we've done this summer. There's been hikes, dances, songs and numerous other activities which would only bring tears to our eyes to recall. Many of us have memories not only from this year but also from previous years. What has brought everyone back year after year? Perhaps it is that beaten word which is used so often to describe Kadimah--spirit! What is spirit? Being able to sing a song in the dining hall and making a lot of noise? No, it's not making a lot of noise but receiving a feeling of togetherness from it.

This summer, friendships have been renewed which brought closer feelings and better understandings. Many people will return next summer for even a stronger and better relationship. During the short six weeks, we achieved a close friendship which rarely occurs in our home communities in ten months.

Even though the weather was disheartening, Maccabia still produced the same feeling as it has in the past years. Friendship was still in everyone's heart during these long, six fighting days. During this New Maccabia, everyone was set on helping one another which ended up into a stronger and better relationship.

Camp Machar (the Senior Camp) was separated from the Junior and Intermediate Sections and was carried out successfully. The Senior campers were separated from the rest of the camp during the day except for meals. Evening programs for the Senior Camp were serious, amusing and enjoyable to all. The Senior campers of 1969 who were the first to start Camp Machar have shown their responsibilities for a complete separate camp in the years to come.

Rhea Simon

WELL DONE!

I wish to congratulate all of the Head Staff and the Counsellors of Camp Kadimah '69 for a job well done, and for achieving in this year's program one of the prime and original aims set up by the Canadian Young Judaea over fifty years ago: "To encourage and carry on as much as possible among them the study of the geography and life of Palestine, of the Hebrew language, Jewish history, literature, traditions, folk songs and of things of a Jewish national character".

This year, the program at Kadimah has fostered in our youth a greater understanding and appreciation of our Jewish heritage, made Zionism meaningful to these youths who live in a rapidly changing world. This will serve the cause of Zionism in that now they will return to their communities spread out throughout the Atlantic Region and continue to teach others on an ongoing program of their Jewish identification.

As our struggle continues to achieve peace with the Arab neighbours and for full recognition of the State of Israel within boundaries which can secure it against invasion, let us say Shalom for another year, not forgetting our responsibilities as Judaeans.

A-do-noy oz l'a-mo yi-tane
A-do-noy ye-vo-rah es a-mo va-sho-lom.

May G-d give strength unto His people and bless His children everywhere with peace.

THANK YOU!

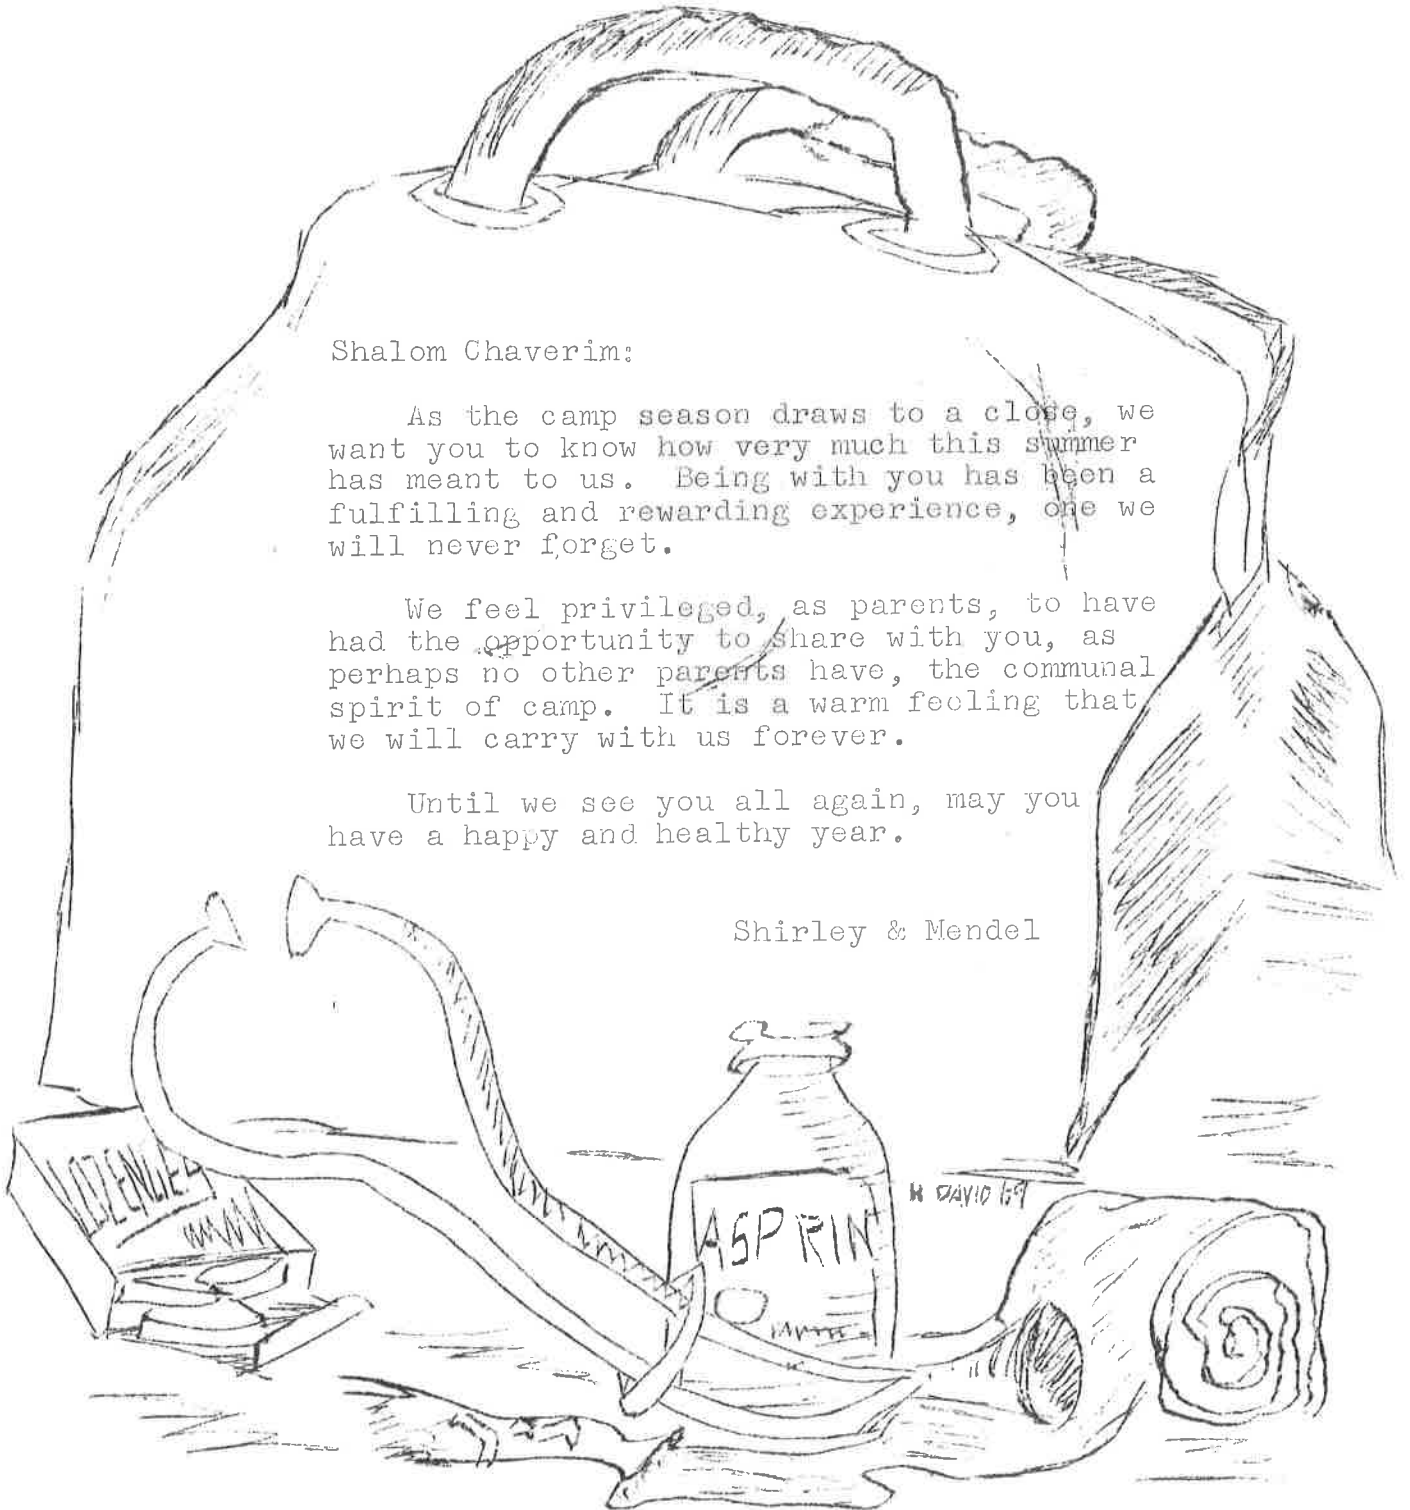

Shalom Chaverim:

As the camp season draws to a close, we want you to know how very much this summer has meant to us. Being with you has been a fulfilling and rewarding experience, one we will never forget.

We feel privileged, as parents, to have had the opportunity to share with you, as perhaps no other parents have, the communal spirit of camp. It is a warm feeling that we will carry with us forever.

Until we see you all again, may you have a happy and healthy year.

BENNY PROSSIN leaves the dining hall to Cabin 14, discreetly and moderately of course.

.....AND NOW WE LEAVE FOR YET ANOTHER SEASON.....

REMEMBER WHEN...

Camp would not be camp if: Howard didn't play his guitar
Baruce didn't think the grass was greener
Sydney and Hart were not fiddling with the mike
Eric fed his kids first
Laurie didn't smile
Martha and Bug CENSORED
the dining hall was quiet
The Golden Leach wasn't in the tower
If Bobby went into the water
If there wasn't someone soaking in the infirmary
If the pop machine worked
If the C.L. was clean
it hadn't rained every three and half hours
Ralph hadn't had his fall for the season.
Howard Kaplan had a haircut
Canteens weren't taken
Benny Nathanson didn't have his daily accident
Macabbia wasn't close
Yellow didn't come last
IF WE ALL HADN'T BEEN HERE FOR SIX WEEKS.

ROSH MACHAR

As our six weeks here at Camp draw to a close it is impossible not to look back to "yesterday" and remember.

We can sit back and remember the activities we attended. We learned new songs and dances, made a number of projects in the A&C, swam, and played sports. We can even remember some Mischakim Periods where we played Tzarich Lasim and the Rov Has Lost His Yamolke. We will recall the sichot, where it all started, with "Do You Identify?"

Back in our cities we may in some moment reflect back on the programs in which we've participated. We may remember our services interrupted by the Russian Police or the Chassidic Marriage of Norman and Shelly or perhaps even the countries we represented in the International Bazaar. We may remember Hityashvut. We weren't very competitive but we weren't very hungry either. We may think of our Party affiliations in the Model Knesset or perhaps, about the night war broke out in Israel.

But that is all our yesterdays. What of all our tomorrows? What will we do now? It is now time to answer the question, "How can we show our identification?"

For each one of us the answer will be different. For most the answer may lie in Young Judaea. Hopefully, the majority of us will go back to our centres and form the nucleus of a strong Judaeac Cheura in the Atlantic Region. For some of the Madrichim the answer may be Hillel. For other chanichim the answer may be any one of a number of things. At least, I hope, Each one of us has an answer for our tomorrows.

The success of Machar '69 cannot be measured by what has been done here in six weeks. It can only be measured "tomorrow".

The friends we've made, the people we've met are part of our yesterdays. But they are also the ones with whom we can make our tomorrows great.

INTERMEDIATE SECTION HEAD REPORT

Sometimes I sit back and wonder about this age group. Its been so long since I was thirteen and I can't even remember exactly what it was like to be twelve, let alone eleven.

I see you people and I notice that everything is fresh to you. Your problems are little like your bodies.

Some of you are leaders and your character is shaping, some of you are kind and gentle, and sometimes you can be cruel and unthinking and you all are childish. Yet, you are children.

Children are to be understood for they still can be known. And for the six weeks you have been here we have tried to understand you.

You are great campers. Sometimes it moved me as I stood back and watched you participate. Total environment in what one does is the key to success. You have proven to me that you can attain maximum enjoyment when you really try. I was always amazed at the amount of energy and willingness to try, that you showed.

Camp life can build many long and lasting memories, ones you will carry with you throughout your lives.

I hope that you will look back on your past season at Kadimah, and have many fond memories.

May the friendships be lasting. For in essence, what is camp for, but people living together.

Being sensitive of one another in the daily activities, we learn to play together, to develop characters, sportsmanship, to develop our creative instincts, but most important, we learn that there are over 200 people that we have met and become, in a sense, close to all of them.

If at the end of this summer you have made lasting friendships and memories, then you were a good camper.

May these friendships remain for as long as you live.

Howard Kaplan

A MESSAGE FROM THE JUNIOR VILLAGE SECTION HEAD

In looking back over this summer at Camp Kadimah, I find that I have many fond memories. I have learned much, I have made many friends, and I have shared many good times with people I have come to know and love.

Kadimah has much to offer each and every one of us. Consider, for example, the following scene encountered on a mid-morning walk through camp. Here children are learning Hebrew dances, there a group is playing softball, here children are swimming, there campers are singing Hebrew songs. Is this not a beautiful sight?

It is up to us to take advantage of the opportunities camp can provide. We should all learn to appreciate and enjoy the beauties of Camp Kadimah; not only its physical beauties - and they are many - but also the spiritual beauties that evolve from the living for six weeks in a totally Jewish environment.

To the Juniors, I urge you all to participate fully, to give of yourselves for camp Kadimah, for if we do not take advantage of these opportunities, or if we do not contribute our share to camp life, then many wonderful experiences are lost to us.

I think we should all be thankful for being able to spend six weeks at such a beautiful summer camp, renewing old acquaintances and making new friends, as well as learning so much about the Jewish culture and heritage which we all share, and to which we may each contribute.

For my part, I am grateful for the opportunity of sharing with you these happy times, and I hope that Kadimah will provide for you many future summers filled with the joys of learning, playing, and making memories together.

Fondly,

Carol Ann

FINAL ITON REPORT

WATERFRONT

"And when the rain comes you run and hide your head"

So what else is new - it rained this year at camp and the Waterfront Program went on as scheduled. Do you remember during the first week and a half when it was cold and windy when we didn't go in? But I want it to be known that the campers of Camp Kadimah are TOUGH!! On many cold days they went in swimming with very few complaints. Well now that I'm finished with the complaints I'll give a brief summary of the years events.

One way in which the waterfront was different this year was that the waterskiing was open more to the campers and almost every camper with their Intermediate went skiing. In future years I hope to see the waterskiing facilities improved and a lessening of the requirements for skiing.

On our rainy days all the older campers took the Royal Life Saving Society Junior Artificial Respiration Award and at time of writing, the test had not been given; but much was learned by all participating campers.

The shallow end had been one of our best instructional areas, this year, with approximately an 80% clearance of pupils from the shallow end to the deep water. Most of our deep water tests even extended to 100 yards instead of 75 yards and this proved that most swimmers could swim farther than they had believed.

This year was unique in that there were three full time waterfront counsellors - Michael Schelew, Michele Lecker, and Elaine Chernin. All of them helped immensely in making this year's program a success. Also, I couldn't forget the aid supplied by two other instructors - Pam Maser and Sue Green who both did excellent jobs with their classes.

We had a regatta this year with only the Junior and Inters participating and they proved that they can run a program without the assistance of senior campers. Regatta '69 was probably the greatest single event in the Waterfront Program this year. Regatta leads me to the boating program which was capably handled by Sydney Wilansky. Perhaps in the future there might be some more boats purchased for our use, but this year we managed quite ably with the equipment on hand.

So much for Waterfront '69, in closing, all I can say is that it was a pleasure running your Waterfront this year. I, too, hope you will protect what you have learned and at all times you will be Waterwise.

Waterfront Director

Ronald Pink

ARTS AND CRAFTS REPORT 1969

This year certainly whizzed by quickly. Many projects were completed this season which all the campers seemed to enjoy very much. Mosaic tiles of various shapes, sizes and colors were combined to form hot plates, square trivets, round trivets, ash trays, and coasters. Basket reeds were woven to form napkin holders and square trivets. Flowers were made by different age groups, out of duplex crepe paper, art tissue paper, or the liquid plastic "Dip - It" which dries into cellophane. Copper tooling was done by the intermediate section and some very nice designs were completed as wall hangings. Greeting cards and envelopes designed with pens, India Ink, and construction paper and in some cases, old beads and buttons, certainly added to the items created in the daily arts and crafts classes. Felt wall murals on a burlap backing were completed and I know the intermediate campers had an enjoyable time cleaning up after those classes. The Camp Kadimah model by the 9 year olds looked realistic and was well done by visiting day. Gimp, wooden rings, creepy crawlers, pot holders and clay work were very popular amongst all ages. Above all, the clear cast pen holders, ash trays, and turtle soap dishes certainly were a hit.

Clean up after each class sure created lots of headaches, as you all know. But as rough as it became at times, nevertheless, I certainly enjoyed teaching my ideas to you. It's been a lot of fun this season. Good luck in the coming year.

Myra Holtzman

DRAMA

In every man there lies the urge to perform, and this year at Camp Kadimah each camper received this chance to be at centre stage.

Drama was introduced this season as a scheduled activity in the cultural program along with arts and crafts, dance, and schira. The aim of the drama program was to allow each camper the opportunity of enjoying recreational drama in the activities of skits, charades, pantomime, and creative dance. Seeing laughing faces and excited reaction from many campers while their friends were on stage seems to suggest that drama remain a scheduled activity in the years to come. As a climax to the activities this season, Kadimah '69 Drama Festival was staged during the last week of camp. Congratulations to all actors and assistants who helped make the festival a success.

I would like to take this opportunity to say a very sincere thank you to the staff and campers of Kadimah for the wonderful hospitality which was extended to Larry and I this summer. Good luck to all of you in your future endeavors.

Monica Maloney

RIKUD (DANCING '69)

"Yeminite right and a yemenite left, now hop right and hop left." "Shlosh ar ba. No, not that way, this way!" "If you don't want to dance, please sit in that corner and be QUIET! The above phrases will probably bring some great nostalgic feelings in the future.

It is very easy for me to say that everyone loved and enjoyed the dance periods, since I am the dance instructor, and besides, what specialist would say that his program was not a success. If they did they would have plenty of Shlechta Bazinas, but as for me, I'll just stick with the media and consequently I'll reap of only nochas and good Bazinas.

Seriously, I hope that if there is anything that the campers gained from dance this year, I hope it is that dancing is fun, and that anyone who "can walk, can dance."

I do believe that a lot of kids understood that what I really wanted from them was not perfection in their dance steps, if they could just get and hold a "beat", that and foremost would be the most important thing. I think a large majority of dancers have gained this idea quite well.

Also, if one couldn't get the certain steps in a dance that did not discourage them from finishing the dance. On the contrary, a lot of kids did stay in even though they couldn't get the suggested step. They injected a movement which enabled them to stay "in beat" with the music. Dancing is an individual thing, and to dance is to express something whether it be emotional or physical feelings and therefore it doesn't necessarily have to be confined to any set steps or movements.

In closing, I only hope that those who are really interested will keep up their interest at home. I think a lot of campers leave camp with a great knowledge about dance, but during the course of the year they fail to keep up their interest, and thus they forget most of the dances they learned. The remedy of this problem can be solved by keeping your interest strong during the year by going to your Judean centre, and taking an active part in any dance programs, or buy some Jewish dance records. Even if you don't know the dances, make up your own steps. Jewish dancing is such a beautiful and warm way of expressing your Jewish heritage, it really is.

Also, at this time, I would like to thank each and every one who took an active part in my dance classes, your cooperation and interest really impressed and helped me tremendously.

Dancingly yours,

Rick (Che!) Perlin

ATHLETIC REPORT

Now that another summer is coming to a close at Camp Kadimah thoughts of a very successful season run through one's mind. The waterfront has suffered a wet season, but both staff and campers have come through with flying colors. Many more youngsters have now acquired a very valuable skill which will provide them with many years of safe, enjoyable recreation. Landsports have given to some the means of keeping the human body in good physical condition - a very important task in this day of affluence.

Through the summer I have observed many campers participating in the swimming and landsports program, and also have seen the campers in Maccabia - a very intense week of competition. As one would expect, tempers sometimes rose to the boiling point because of a great desire to win. If there is a message I would like to leave with the campers of Kadimah it is this: That although the desire to win must be first and foremost in the mind of any camper, this desire to win must not precede a sincere respect for one's fellow man before, during, or after competition. Good sportsmanship is an easy word to say and spell, but it is a most difficult ideal to live up to.

And to the people who lose there is a quotation that means a great deal - "It is better to have tried and lost, than not to have tried at all!"

Thank you for a very fine summer

Sincerely,

Larry Maloney
Athletic Director

LANDSPORTS

Due to the large groups, it was deemed necessary to make many sub-divisions within the sections. This proved to be very successful, as each camper was given a better opportunity to display his or her's talent. As in past years softball, ground-hockey and kickball proved to be the most desired sports among the campers. However, all other sports activities attended by the campers were also a terrific success. It was obvious that the sportsmanship and athletic ability of each camper improved from the beginning to the end of the camp season. The counsellors added greatly to the ruach and the organizing of all sport activities. Without their assistance the program could not have been what it was.

Tumbling was introduced into the program later in the camp season and proved to be a success. Ground hockey and floor hockey were introduced to the senior girls and proved not only to be highly spirited, but a bit rough and tough. As the camp season draws to an end, we the sports staff hope that what the campers have learned in the sport periods this summer, will benefit them in their future sporting adventures.

Yours truly,
Al Siskew
Sports Staff

TZOPIUT

"I think that I shall never see
A poem as lovely as a tree...

These first lines of the well-known poem by Joyce Kilmer express very simply, yet powerfully, the reason why we have all come to a camp in the "rural wilds" of Nova Scotia, in the heart of beautiful Lunenburg County. Kadimah is situated in the place where it is, so that we may learn to enjoy and appreciate Nature in all her splendour. Living in the midst of trees, lakes, and animals - mink, muskrat, turtle - we have a wonderful opportunity to experience an environment which holds within it many of the secrets of life.

Scouting itself is a means - and a means only - of living with Nature on her own terms. It is merely the ability to use basic practices and tricks - lashings, tracking, fire-building - in order to be independent and self-reliant in the vast domains of Nature. Scouting teaches a boy to become a man.

The tzofiut program of this season varied greatly from age group to age group. It stretched all the way from insect collecting and trailcraft signs to the construction of elaborate and definitely well built backwoods structures (commonly called blanket tents) There were quite a number of hikes and outings and fortunately or not (as you please) there were no serious mishaps (save a few leeches) - no one got lost on any of the logging trails in the vicinity of Indian Falls, no canoes capsized and no one even came close to severing a limb!

The finest part of the Scouting program for me personally was the meeting and the becoming friends with so many of that warm and wonderful breed known as "Maritimers". Out Alberta way I had heard many good things about the "Easterners" and now I know how true these things are for myself.

I would like to thank the many people who helped me with various scouting activities throughout the season. In particular, a special ~~thanks~~ to Syd Wilansky, Laurie Pascoe, and Stuart Freeman whom I had to depend upon frequently.

I would like to close with a philosophical Chinese proverb that is very relevant to scouting: "A bird in the hand may be messy!"

CAMP KADIMAH

AROUND
CAMP

OUR BUNKS

Cabin B-- Ricky Jacobs and Mark London (age 8)

We had lots of fun and kicks this year and then we played lots of games and had fun in section sections. I liked all the night things and my hobby. This is the bestest camp I've been to. I don't like it never when someone spills something at our stable. Carol is our bestless Sexless Head and Stuart and Hart are good but Sue and Shane would be more fun. Since this is first year at camp this is all I can right.

P.S. I gotta go be cause Ricky has to use the facilaties.

P.P.S. Please excuse the spelling because we didn't not know how to spell Section Sessions.

Cabin C-- Stephen Levine (age 9)

Camp was fun this year. All the periods were nice. I liked showers and Section Sessions the best. There are nine boys in my bunk. They are Neil Wilansky, Richard Freedman, Shalom Aurebach, Jon Kaplansky, Richard Seigel, Bruce Simon, Stephen Levine, Raymond Stein, and Mark David. Our counsellors were great. They were Eric Swetsky and Jack Novack. We went on an overnight hike, we slept in the tent, and we went to Bridgewater. We had fun.

Cabin 32--Alan Kaplan and Glenn Berall (age 10)

Cabin cleanup (ugh)

Cabin cleanup is real crazy,
And besides the campers are lazy.

Cabin cleanup (ugh)

Fixing shelves and making beds,
Doing what the counsellor says.

Cabin cleanup (ugh)

Cabin cleanup (ugh)

Doing bathroom, sweeping too,
Counsellors tell us what to do.

Cabin cleanup (ugh)

Never stopping, always work,
Being bossed by counsellor Berk.

Cabin cleanup (ugh)

Cabin A-- Alberta Bentley. (age 8)

It's fun at camp, we play games and have fun playing them. We go swimming. We have fun in dancing and song. I have lots of friends and we all have lots of fun in shuffleboard. Our cabin is a pretty one and the camp is a nice one too. Everything here is nice.

Cabin 28

Why does the roof always leak in Cabin 28? Why are the clothes on the clothesline always in the mud? Why is Heather always bothered with so many wasp bites? Why are the ladders always slamming to the floor? Why were there cornflakes in our beds? Who "DONE" it in the Perry Mason trial? Why do our girls need the House Rules? Why these pleasant visits from the leader of our nation? Why are bugs attracted to our home on the lake? Why is there no moderation and discretion? The answer, my friend, lies within the sweet disposition of the following 10 never do righters: Sherry Budovitch, Terry Budovitch, Gail Bornstein, Linda Smilestone, Seema Wolman, Perla Arditti, Debbie Fineberg, Ellen Star, Jani Sue Bornstein, and Natalie Cohen.

P.S. The campers' hearts beat true for their counsellors Lani, Marilyn, and Sue.

Cabin 27

" On one bright and sunny morn, early in July, we came to dear old Kadimah, vacation here to try, ..." but ... the kids were here early in July too! Yes, there they were, bag and baggage, huddled in a tight circle on the auxiliary sports field. Even though they looked a wee bit frightened, eagerness for a good summer could be sensed even by the most frightened onlooker. Escorted by Sue and myself, our campers walked to bunk 27-- their new home for six weeks. Bunk beds were the order for sleeping accommodations. Our campers, I believe, have had an enjoyable summer: there were the ups but there were also the downs. It was hard work for everyone but the smiles were always there, hidden behind the tears, granted, but there. Well, Judy, Heather, Andrea, Abby, Beth Lynn, Miryawm, Maureen, Heidi---- summer '69 will never be forgotten!

Cabin 31--Ryma Brumer and Sheri Lecker (age 11)

This year cabin 31 has been a really great bunk. We've been really good and haven't caused our counsellors any trouble. They might have given us a little though. Our cabin really enjoyed camp this year except that we want to leave.

Evening programs have been fun and as usual so are our periods. We really like Arts and Crafts, sports and dance, they are our favourite periods.

For those in our bunk that are returning next year we hope that Cabin 31 will stay together.

Cabin 30 --Cathy Freeman (age 12)

Cabin 30 wouldn't be cabin 30 without:

Cindy Cohen's singing
Sheila Nathenson's apologies
Donnamae Rutman's habit of killing bugs at night
Greta Nathenson's wisdom
Leslie Leonard's speech
Cathy Freeman's blue jeans
Milo Burnstein's guitar

Pam Medjuck's plays, songs, etc.
Rhonda Wilansky's flute
Zena Forman's coloured markers
Beth Smilestone's smile
Ruth Hoffman's smile
Pam Arron's giggle

And last but not least to our counsellors: Leslie Oler's toothbrush and Carol Dubinsky's hair ribbons and play writing ability.
After reading this brief article you can see why I enjoyed staying at camp this summer.

Cabin 33 -- Debby Levine (age 13)

What would happen if:

Debby Levine didn't have Timmy Margolians picture to hug every night.
Cheryl Selick was the first one out of bed in the morning
Amy Smith didn't use the prayer book
Ruth-Ann Brown didn't talk about Brian Medjuck every night
Janet Chernin wasn't tuned in and turned on Dawn Sherman didn't use a flashlight
Suzanne Sable didn't pick a fight with Dawn Sherman
Wendy Pink didn't rock her bed every night
Diana Gordon was seen with those large rollers in her hair
Nancy Shniderman didn't get bee stings anymore
Sharon Kantorowitz lost her bottle of calimin lotion
Sue Green left without the three stooges
Pam Maser didn't use Lavoris Mouthwash (ED NOTE: Wrigley's will do)
Lisa Cohen's sex life improved (ED NOTE: It is.)

Cabin 14 -- David London (age 11)

There was a lot of fun this year in Cabin 14. The activities were good.
This year the counsellors are very nice, but sometimes they are strict. I know that the counsellors are trying their hardest to give us a good summer.

I plus other fellow campers in my cabin are enjoying camp this summer and I would like to return. Everyone in our cabin is looking forward to Banquet Night.
We had some pillow fights, we enjoyed them very much. We have a cabin softball team with a main team and a few substitutes.

Shira and dance were fun this year. You also have to include drama and scouting as being enjoyable. There was a good instructor on the waterfront as well.
All in all it was a good summer.

Cabin 16 -- Alan Mark (age 12)

Speaking for the cabin it was a good season. Again we had cabin 16 with three counsellors but not all from Cape Breton like last year thank G-d. We had a baseball team and we beat Cabin 14 6-4 but we lost 4-0 to Cabin 13. All the cabin is playing with Jacky Shore's frisby (the one he bought at the Sydney K Mart).

The biggest attraction occurs when our counsellors manage to get girls for a goodnight kiss. Besides being late for everything it was a very good year.

Cabin 13 --David Newman and Mark Bowman (age 13)

This year the thirteen year olds had the same cabin as last year, alias cabin 13. After we got off the bus we were escorted back to our humble abode (That's putting it mildly) for the remainder of six weeks. After settling down we were surprised to hear our new section head was Howard Kaplan. Next we got acquainted with our new counsellors (the hard way).

Then in the days following we attended the activities planned for the next six weeks. About a week before Visitor's Day we went to Wolfville for the play "Carousel", but many still agree that the food was better. But to date the best program has been that of the Model Knessit which was after a sicha by Bruce on Israel's government. It was to show us what next year would be like by participating with the Senior Camp and their talented Madrichim.

This year our cabin was the Intermediate champs in baseball and our name was the Dirty Three Quarter Dozen.

So Long for now "Chazak V'ematz" Demetericus and see you next year at Kadimah '70. (in case you don't know what Demitricus means, well -- use your imagination).

Tzerif Aleph --Carey Jacobson

We the members of Tzrif Aleph do bequeath the following:

Nina Lipshutz our shoelaces	Shirley Spatz Susan's speed
Lynn Goldstein buttercup	Barb Swetsky a broadcasting career
Lisa Simon a laughing hyena	Leslie Epstein best bed
Gayle Gordon all her cousins	Debbie Walansky sammy
Judith Medjuck Darrel F.	Iris Jacobson extended curfew to use with moderation and discretion
Elaine Lipschutz some kleenex	Sybil Shore more rollers
Susan Levine Felice's hair
Debbie Garson chapped lips
Nava Jakubovicz good knees
Wendy Wolman food
Felice Cohen her teddy bear and slurp

Tzrif Bet --Robin Pascoe (age 16)

"When you walk through a storm keep your head up high" because more than likely you are approaching Tzrif Bet - home of fourteen L.I.T.'s and one C.I.T. These bright young girls got right in the swing of the new Senior Camp in other words, we took advantage of the fact there were no counsellors in the cabin. Of course how could there be counsellors living with us? There is hardly enough room for the fifteen of us without anyone else living with us. But anyways we managed, boy did we manage. We managed to eat, fool around, laugh and in general have fun. At least, as much fun as we could in these conditions. Hope you have enjoyed reading the L.I.T. report as for the C.I.T. report you might find one if you are lucky.

Tzrif Gimmel -- Mark Stein

Well, now that Camp is over we can get down to the bare facts! Tzrif Gimmel had a great bunch of guys. They were: Stephen Hirsch, Arnold Chippin, Alan Simon, Garth Nathanson, Ralph Shepherd, Sheldon Goldman, Robbie Riteman, Norman Rosenblum, Raymond Green, David Chippin, myself and Peter Levine for the first two weeks (ha ha).

Tzrif Gimmel here-by donates to Stephen Hirsch a prepaid course in how to lead the Shabbat Services properly. To Arnold Chippin, a bottle of pep pills for use in sports periods. To Alan Simon, free lessons in how to dribble a basketball.

To Garth Nathenson a new box of elstics for his brasses, To myself Mark Stein a portable infirmary. To Ralph Shepherd a pair of simple ordinary pants. TO Sheldon Goldman a rule book for alls sports and a rope to hang himself. To Robbie Riteman a year's supscription to Playboy. To Norman Rosenblum a hug and kiss from Iris. To Raymond Green Felice Cohen teddy bear and company. To David Chippin lessons on how to row a boat.

Cabin 4 -- Tzrif Daled--Norman Stein(age16)

If you are ever looking for Mark Levitz, Norman Stein, Mark Rosen, Allan Meyers, Marty Zatzman, and Sammy Fried, you'll have a hard time. They're never where they are supposed to be. If there was Hitamlut we would be back at the cabin sound asleep. If there is swim instruction we would be found in the infirmary or in the bathroom. And if we were supposed to be at evening program we would be having a jam session with Rose and Martha. Well, enough for this, and more about our personal life. First, we have "Buttercup" otherwise known as Marty Zatzman--he's a groovy guy. We always pick on him and he never fights back. In the Decathalon he worked very hard tying his shoelaces before and after every event. The girls at camp are all crazy over his cute little beard. He also carries "Gertrude" around with him all day long. I think he's falling in love with her. Marty has a strange habit of snoring but not as strange as Sammy's which you will find out about later. As you know Marty is one of the great three CITS in camp. It's really too bad that he's allergic to the showers. Enough of Marty. Let's go on to Mark Rosen. Mark, as you know is seen in in the bathroom 99.9% of the time. He combs and brushes his sweet curly hair before and after every activity. Inlike Marty, He takes showers twice a day and three times on Sunday--he's a real cool cat. You won't believe this but Mark Rosen thinks he's going balled. Everytime he combs his hair, Hundreds upon hundreds of hairs fall to the ground. You are probably wondering why Mark Rosen always gets best bed. So we will tell you-- He hires a different girl everyday to make it. I think he prefers Gail Davidson and Reta Mae Zel. Mark is the lover-boy of the cabin because all the girls are crazy over his curly hair. O.K. we've already said too much about Mark. Now let's og on to Sammy (Alabama) Fried. You are probably wondering what Sammy's strange habit is. It is talking in his sleep. The next two phrases are what we have heard Sammy say in his sleep: "Peanuts and get out of here." Sammy is the only person in the cabin who can stop Marty from snoring. He uses ingenious methods such as tying Marty's sheets in knots under his bed. Or by lifting the boards ten feet in the air--which usually works. As you probably know, Sammy never makes a mess at the table--he's a big little angel. As you probably know Sam brought his own personal guard to watch over the door of Cabin 4. It is none other than "Fred the Flag". All in all Sammy is the playboy of the cabin. Next comes the problem of the cabin; Allan Meyers. In his trunk named Zoomie, He has enough food and gum to feed the whole Israeli and Arab Army for 21/2 years. He keeps it locked in his suitcase and never opens it when anyone's around. We could never do without dear, sweet Allan because he's the one who locks the door and turns out the light at night when we are half asleep in bed. All in all Allan Meyers is a real bad guy. Next we have the mild-mannered Norman Stein., who is secretly known, only to Camp Kadimah as Super-Baby. He is a CIT who does nothing but drink coke in the C.L. Nobody knows what Normie does between the hour of 11:00 and 12.00 at night except Buttercup Marty who will not reveal the evidence. Normie is allergic to combs. He in six weeks brushed his hair twice. Once on Visiting Day, and once on Banquet Night. I must interupt this Program for some stunning news---

Marty Zatzman has taken a shower. What is this world coming to? Last and least we have Mark Levitz, the miracle-maker of the cabin. He's really amazing! He has had a little trouble with the boys next door, but he is now declared the official loser of the fight. In his efforts he has tried like the devil for freedom, justice, and a peace for born losers. Mark is number one dramatist in our cabin. Being seen most frequently with Reta Mae Zel. Will this inhuman treatment ever stop bothering Mark. He has put up with everything the boys threw at him., and we admire him for it. In the last part of this fantastic story, we will leave our Will and Testament: Norman Stein leaves his comb to Mark Rosen's curly hair, Marty Zatzman sends his love to Reta Mae, Rose and Martha, Allan Meyers leaves his bubblegum for all, Sammy leaves his memories to Cabin 10, Mark Levitz leaves his milk can to Cabin 5 and finally Mark Rosen leaves his hair on the bathroom floor. Now we the rebels of the lobster trap leave Camp Kadimah, maybe as the last time as campers.

Cabin 11 -- Martha and Rose (age 20 and 18)

There is a cabin in Kadimah that one may mistake for a Garbage Can. But I don't know why. Some may call it a super ashtray, dusty record shop, or hair-ribbon factory. But still it is a cabin. And this is where Rose, Reta Mae, and Martha sleep and think. About programming of course.

As you enter the cabin, to the left you see a girl on the bed. Usually alone. That's because she has a good sense of discretion. She also moderates. Her name is Martha, and if you don't see her sleeping you'll find her at a shira class trying to sing or get out of swim instruction. The summer has flown by and she hasn't even mastered the jelly-fish float. I think she's beautiful, because I am her. To your right you'll find Rose under a mass of clothes, still dirty from Hityashvut, or you might hear the sound of a beautiful guitar, which probably is the record player. Rose is nice. We like her, even if she does clean up too much and sings her original too much--which sounds better than mine. Rose's immediate plans for the future are Nachon and fulfillment--isn't she cute. Across from Rose is sweet little Reta Mae--don't you just love her? We try to help her get into trouble but it's impossible. She even went ahead and won Maccabiah. Can you imagine? Whenever there is art to be done Reta Mae does it. Whenever the toilet has to be disinfected, Reta Mae does it. Whenever Rose and I have nothing to wear, Reta Mae supplies. Happiness could be Reta Mae, but right now it's not, because she can't stand all the cigarette butts and dirty clothes lying around. And you may question our jobs here at camp. Well, if I began describing our duties and responsibilities this article would never end. Just use your imagination.

P.S. Just hold it a minute! This is Rose and I'd like my sense to Martha's so that we might have two sense between us. We don't want to give the impression that just because we are supremely happy by ourselves, we don't entertain occasionally. Everyone is welcome in our cabin. As a matter of fact, since the word went around, the rats and flies have joined us too. The only way to enter our cabin when you plan to visit is to knock and then enter at the same time. Then you shall be sure to find Rose in her hostess gown, alias--underwear. You must have a cigarette hanging out of your mouth or we will mistake you for a camper. Rose will trip over to turn on a record or offer you a seat on Martha's bed.

seat on Martha's inert body. Then you can chew the fat for awhile and share a "glass tea mit lemon" or just gaze glassy-eyed out of the window. Although by now we must be making quite a depression on you, we leave the last few of our intimate memories for ourselves and the Camp Committee. Next year in the kitchen staff. Next year in the Holy Land. -

Love, me (Rose)

Cabin 6-- Laurie and Bob (age 19 and 17)

My name is Laurie and my cabin mates are Bobby and Howie. We have only three in our cabin. Because we are male Madrichim. What is a Madrich? What does a Madrich do? We would like to know, so would Benny. We have fun in our cabin. We play. Pammy, Evy, and Martha help us play. We sometimes clean up our cabin but not very often. That is because Howie and Bobby are slobs. Howie has made his bed twice. Bobby doesn't know what a broom is. Most of the time we talk like this:

Laurie: Gee boys, the dirt was piled so high I couldn't get to Hitamlut.

Howie: What's Hitamlut?

Bob: That's a two-day hike.

Howie: Laurie, please step on my cigarette butt.

Laurie: Which one?

Bob: Listen guys, we must plan tonight's evening program.

Howie: Let's do it after dinner.

Laurie: Let's do it after supper.

Bob: Let's have bunk night.

Laurie: Oh, Oh, here comes Bruce.

Howie: Bruce who?

Bob: That's Arden's brother.

Bruce (entering) Excuse me, boys, but could you tell me where the Senior Camp is?

Laurie, Bob, and Howie: We're sorry but we haven't been outside the door all summer. We don't know where it is.

All in all this summer was a good one.

Cabin 15

Cabin 15 on the lake
Was our place this year
In huntyim we did partake
With Benny a constant fear.

Mark Berner from this cabin hails,
The girls thought he was so sweet,
As a result there were many tales,
And he became tweet tweet.

Ronald Pink, the golden leech,
The Fascist pig as well,
Never a rule he did breach,
But only time will tell.

Al Schelew, the head of sport,
He did what had to be done,
Now he might go to court
Due to some churnin' fun.

On waterfront is Michael Schelew,
He tries to play it cool,
But at Kadimah he is through,
'Cause he won't go in the pool.

Ricky dances all day long,
In dance he did partake,
Ricky even sings a song,
While he eats his steak.

And to our summer we wave bye, bye,
Our cabin's door we close,
It's true our summer has been dry,
But that's the way it goes.

So there you go!

Cabin 7-- Elliot Baker (age 17)

Once There Was Five

At Kadimah this year
A new system was started
Five boys in the kitchen
Our job was soon started.

We are going to try
To tell you right now
The kitchen 'boys' lives
The when's and the how's.

The first one we come to
Stanley Simon by name
Is an interesting chap
Let's dig this cat's game.

He works his shift
Just like a sheep
As soon as he's finished
He's fast, fast asleep.

Eric Zusman, a fellow
Who's known simply by Zummy
Is a wonderful fellow
Just like our own. Boomie.

He came to this camp
Just like any old John
And before we could turn
Ol' Eric was gone.

Laurence Levine
Sometimes he's called "louse"
He came to Kadimah
But returned to his house.

Steve Newman's a chap
Who's really O.K.
Decided to stay
To the very last day.

Because he stayed
And didn't walk out in glee
He left the magic number
At three.

The last kitchen boy
Elliot Baker, a guy
He wanted to stay
Or else he would die.

He liked Camp Kadimah,
He wasn't a faker
Ask kind Mrs. Goldstein
He was her own baker.

Our story is told
Let's turn off the light
A happy summer to all
And to all a good-night!

JUNIOR PROGRAMS

The movie, Billie -- Richard Freedman (age 9)

I liked this movie because this girl was active. She was beating boys in everything. And she looked nice. Her sister got married and her parents didn't know. She had a dog. Her sister was pretty too. It was the best movie in camp. We had three movies in camp. She had kind of a funny name for a girl. But she was active.

The Mini-Carneval -- Lynda Redjuck (age 7)

At the Mini-Carneval there were a hole bunch of games. The one I liked best was "Bobbing for appels". The first time I tried I didn't get an appel. But the other time I got a hole loy. I tried to get an appel in the pan but I did not get one in. I tried to get the ping-pong ball in the cups but I missed it. I kept coming back bobbing for appels. I tried to blow out the candles but it came right back burning on again. I was getting a hole bunch of coupons. When the time came to go, I got a yummy chocolate bar.

The End.

The Counsellor Hunt -- Arthur Yanobsky (age 7)

The idea of this game was to try to capture the counsellor and then punish them. I was trying to catch Elliott Baker but he was on top of the trunk house. Instead, a dumb girl caught him. After, we had a water fight with the counsellors. I got wet.

Kaos vs. Control -- Howard Conter (10 years old)

One night for evening program, we had a game of Kaos vs. Control. It was a game in which there were 24 clues, 12 per team. Each team had their clues, usually in the same area. The first team to get the 12 clues and find the scientist is the winner. Kaos won and it was very good.

The Space Telecast -- Gail Bornstein (age 10)

It came the moment when they would blast off to start the journey to the moon. 5-4-3-2-1 and they were off! The next stage was the landing-- the most exciting part of all! It was late at night so most of the Juniors left, but some did stay. I was one. Then they landed. They came out after awhile. And then I left. Our counsellors told us how the flag floated every time they stuck it in. That night I lay wondering. Wondering what was next.

The Space Social -- Seth Chippin (age 7)

On Saturday night, because the American astronauts were landing on the moon, we had a space social. They played scary noises. All the bots had a neat time except the times that we had to dance.

The Bonfire-- Richard Seigel (age 9)

The Junior Section had many bonfires. They were very good. We sang many, many songs. Then we were served hot chocolate and marshmallows. The fire rose high into the air as the many folk songs grew louder and louder. It is bonfires such as these that make Camp Kadimah really fun. The bonfire sight is scary. It is very nice and dark. We had two bonfires and both were fun.

Regatta -- Michael Jacobs and Steven Chernin (age 10)

The Juniors and the Inters had a regatta the day the Seniors went on their hike. We had three teams, 1. Sons of the Water; 2. Daktarie; 3. Aquanauts 8. There were some shallow end events too besides the boating and canoeing. We had hand-paddling rows in boats and rowing races. There were too many people in the boays. Strug was in the boat and he was paddling so hard with his hands that he sank the boat. At the end of the regatta we had a bonfire. They told us the scores at the end. Then we went to bed. We all had a rough day.

Barn Dance -- Michael Freedman (age 10)

The barn dance was before Visiting Day. At the dance there were three men that played the instruments. They played real barn dance music! It is very lively. There was hay all over the floor and everybody was throwing it around. Everybody was dressed like a farmer and a farm girl. The girls had spots on their faces. I had a lot of fun there.

One-Day hike -- Bruce Simon (age 9)

We got up one morning and went to Mifkad Period. There the Junior Section was told it was going on a one-day hike. We left at 9:00 and walked for half an hour. We arrived at a swimming area on Lake William. We went swimming, had a bunch of hotdogs, cookies, and apples. We had a rest period and had canteen. We then played games and came home. It was a good hike to a nice place.

The Hayride-- Tova Sherman (age 7)

There were two wagons. Everyone got in the wagons. And went out of camp. The wagons went on the road and we went on a path and threw hay on the cars. One car we threw a coat and it landed in the car. A hayride means a wagon with two horses pulling. The wagon has hay in it.

Sleeping in the Tent -- Seema Wolman (age 10)

I thought sleeping in the tent was very fun, It was very dark and the wind was blowing. We were very scared. We heard stories and Michael, Hiltie, and Jackie came and we sang until we went to sleep.

The Fun I Had At the Fair---Janie Sue Bernstein (age 10)

At the fair I went on four rides: the tilt-a-whirl, the ferris wheel, the octopus, and the funhouse. This isn't really a ride but I went in there anyway. When I was on the tilt-a-whirl, it sort of pulled your head back and made it feel like it was pulling your head off and when I went in the ferris wheel. When we went down it tickled your stomach. Oh! The Octopus was one ride that I will never forget. When I was on that ride I felt like I was going to fall out... it was going so fast. The last thing I went in was the funhouse and in the funhouse it was pitch black so that you couldn't see the person next to you. When it was time to go through the next part of the funhouse, everyone else was there except me and I was in a black corner all by myself. But when everyone got out of the funhouse the man asked, "where is the other one"? meaning me.

INTER PROGRAMS

Regatta '69 --- Pamela Arron (age 12)

On the shores of Camp Kadimah, once again, there was the annual regatta. This exciting event happened when the Senior Camp was on a long dreary hike. There were three teams with two captains each. I was much amazed when my name was called out to be a captain on team 2. The male captain with me was Marc Bernstein. With the time between 2:30 and 4:00 we had to make up a name, a banner, and the events which were quite hard. There were 25 exciting events including canoe races, paddleboards, leaving and entering, hand-paddling, and many others. The very last event was soon called. This was the rowing marathon. I was in this event, and me and five others had to row from beyond the buoy to the Senior Float. During this event, the other members of my team who were not participating in this event were getting ready for a bonfire where the results were going to be given out. After the marathon, which my team, Daktari, won, everybody was called behind the AdC for a bonfire. All of the six captains were to come up closer to the fire while the results were being given out. With the amazement of the members on my team and myself we came first with Team 3 two points behind. This was a very thrilling and surprising day.

GREATCAMPGREATCAMPGREATCAMPGREATCAMPGREATCAMPGREATCAMPGREATCAMPGREAT

The Obstacle Course-- James Karrol (age 12)

The Obstacle Course was one of the best programs this year for the Inter Section. This is how it worked. There were four teams, these teams had to go to different places and to certain things, for example, they had to come to cabin 16 and say the 10 Commandments, they had to go to the sportsfield and dance the Hora. This program was very exciting and kept everyone's interest. I liked this program very much and I hope they do it next year.

Haganah-- Sharon Kantorovitz & Nancy Schneiderman
(age 13)

During the first week of camp, we had an evening program called Haganah. All the Inters were divided into two groups-- Israelis and Arabs. The object of the game was to capture the other team's flag. This evening program was very good although there were three minor injuries. 1. Dianna Gordon broke her glasses and got a black eye by banging into a tree. 2. Craig Garson fell and hurt himself. 3. Brian Budovitch cut his leg. The Jews became the victors but we think the program was enjoyed by everyone.

Bama Night-- David Newman (age 13)

One night activity we were all quaintly shocked to find that the annual Bama Night had taken place. After we had been divided into four teams each went to work, One team depicted Camp Kadimah breakfast. Another team had a camper's eye-view of what goes on in the C.I. Two other teams had a boker and camp program. It was a memorable program.

Stock Exchange--Andrew Koven (age 12)

This year we had a most interesting evening program. It was a stock exchange. It kept everyone's interest the whole evening and turned out to be successful. The chief stock-broker was Hilton Attis who explained the fluctuations in the stocks. The investor who accumulated the greatest sum of money was myself.

Sadie Hawkins Day--Norman Epstein (age 11)

Sadie Hawkins Day happened this year on August 2. Around the early afternoon they announced for everyone to go to the front of the Rec Hall. After everyone was there Larry shot the gun off for the boys head start. About two minutes later the girls started after them. After you were caught you were brought to the pavillion where you were married by Rabbi Hilton Attis and you were given a marriage certificate. That night the girls picked up the boys for the big dance.

INTERMEDIATE PROGRAMMING

Coffee House '69 --- Cindy Cohen (age 12)

At the coffee house there were large tables around a platform, where entertainment would be held. As they opened the show, food was served. The first act was Howard Kaplan singing some great songs on his guitar. The second act was a new comedian group, Crystal and the Chandeliers. They really made a hit with us. After awhile the third act came on which was another comedian, David Velensky. It was really great. The final act was two boys singing while playing instruments. They were Craig Garson and Jamie Karrel. They really added to the show. The coffee house ended that night quite early. I was really mad that it was over, but it was great to watch.

The Olympics --- Beth Smilestone (age 12)

On the second last Tuesday of the camp season, August 5th., the eleven and twelve year olds had a miniature olympia. The first game which we played was Snap, Crackle, Pop, which was alot of fun. The object of the game was to run around the outside of a circle and then in the middle of the circle where there were spoons to grab. There was one less spoon than person so one person had to get out. I was a captain with Craig Garson. The second game was a team relay. After the team relay each person did a forward roll which was worth one point. A backward roll was also worth one point. And a head stand was worth eight points. I did everything and so did Craig. The person who did alot for us was David Star who won the Snap, Crackle, Pop contest and also did all the gymnastics. Our team won by 26 points. We had a total of 95 points. It was alot of fun and credit should be given to Michael Schelew for a successful program.

Movies at Kadimah '69 --- Mark Bernick (age 11)

The movies shown at Kadimah '69 were not based on the subject of the Jewish people. Different types of movies were shown; as example - horror; Jack the Giant Killer, enjoyment - Billie, sports movie - Jim Thorpe and a Broadway movie - Gypsy. The variety of the movies was well enjoyed by all age groups. Both the senior section and counsellors enjoyed their own movies. The movies chosen by head staff were well received by all groups as you can see in my article.

U.N. Night, Otherwise Known as The Camp Kadimah International Festival of Fine Arts --- Carol Dubinsky S.C.

On the eve of August fourth 1969, the entire Intermediate section assembled in the rec hall, each bunk representing a country of the United Nations. The cabins represented the following countries respectively: 30, 31, 33, 16, 14, 13- China, France, Hawaii, Mexico, Africa, and Israel. Each cabin prepared a skit depicting their country. The results were very rewarding as all campers dressed appropriately for their plays, the skits had good content and participation was keen. Most of the countries prepared a musical as well as a comedy routine. Costumes ranged from paper grass skirts, pig tails and bonnets to sombreros and wild African attire. Highlights of the night were Bill Charnin's near-escape from the cannibals, Rhona Gordon's Chinese laundryman's solo, Jamie Karrel's Mexican hat dance and David Newman's -Hey Jews, Jews, Jews to the tune of "Hey Jude". The gathering of the nations was chaired ably by the chairman, Howard Kaplan, from the foreign land called St. Peter'sland.

SOVIET JEWRY

The entire Senior Camp proceeded to the Rec Hall for Erev Shabbat services. All was quiet as Bruce began the opening prayer. Suddenly, the doors flew open - the Soviet Communists were taking over. The Rec Hall was evacuated for ten minutes and then everyone sneaked in through the back door. Bruce completed the services with the help of Bruce and Evy. Candles were lit while each Madrich read a small part on the plight of the Jews in the U.S.S.R. A discussion led by Bob Brym followed the service. Suggestions of how American Jews could help the Russian Jews were made. The suggestion of writing a petition to the Soviet government was brought up. Many comments were made on the effect the petition would prove or how it would clear many people's consciences.

On the whole, the program went over very well because it made people realize the serious situation of the Russian Jews.

MID - EAST WALL

Last Monday night I came into the dining hall to face a thing I had never experienced before. In front of me I found frightened faces, some with concern only for Isreal, some for relatives they had in Isreal, and even some for their own home town and their religion.

Why was this? What had happened? During the first part of the evening program what was thought to be the whole evening's program, the campers and madrichim in the senior village participated in a music appreciation .

This part of the program was roughly interrupted by what seemed to be a "flash" newscast containing news which we all know could very well come, but dread and pray that it doesn't - "Another was declared and over the Isreali-Jordan border there was intense fighting. Meanwhile in Cairo, Nasser had pledged allegiance to his Arab brethren was part of the first warning from the radio. The rest of it stated that there were emergency meetings with the U.N. and the world was in much the same state of turmoil as in 1948 and 1956.

This was already announced before I came back from the group I had had and the first reactions had been over, but that did not stop everyone's feelings from showing the whole night, until they told us the voice on the radio was Bob Brym's and the radio was really a tape recorder.

The first reaction was that the Madrichim were playing a very funny joke . But then people began to think about our program and appreciated the thoughts it gave us and the way in which it changed most of our attitudes towards Isreal and our Jewish identity.

SENIOR PROGRAMS

THE STOCK - MARKET

The annual Senior Section "Stock Market" was held at the Kadimah Exchange one fine (for some people it wasn't considered fine) July evening. As usual, Prossin's Watch Company went broke due to the careless leadership of the company president. (You'll never guess who cheats) Madrichim Enterprise streaked to a record - breaking high. Naturally, this was fixed to help the Madrichim become more popular with their campers. Goldstein's catering, because of the high quality of CENSORED reached an unexpected high. Lake William Fishery sunk on the board with the legitimate reason of pollution of the lake. Due to the fact that the morning show went low on Neilson's rating, all those who invested in Swetsky's Broadcasting, regretted that decision. A watch was stolen from the high-tower so poor Pink's Security didn't progress so on the exchange. Since the General Store is closed on Wednesday afternoon's, idle employers Of Barss' Corner Oil went on strike and the fate of the company was inveriable.

Cousin's Incorporated tried this year to make a sweeping come back on the Stock Exchange Door and with Ronald Pink being the Jinx, Elaine ran back to Noogie with empty pockets.

Let's hope that next year, in Kadimah, the depression will be over and all the gambling campers will be able to increase their bank accounts. (Make sure you don't leave your money with Pink's Security)

MISSISSIPPI MARANOES

Mississippi Maranoes was a reading play put on by a group of seniors. I thought that this play was very informative to all who saw it, as it told us of the trouble in Mississippi.

The story was directed toward a Jewish lawyer in Mississippi, who tried to prevent discrimination a gainst the Jews.

"Mississippi in 1969 is like Germany in 1934" was a phrase used to describe the conditions in Mississippi.

After thorough discussion between this Jewish lawyer and other Jewish families, they decided that very little could be done to solve their troubles. The only solution was to leave Mississippi.

Does this discrimination seem possible in this day and age?

A TRIP TO ACADIA

On one very hot afternoon, the senior camp left for Acadia University to see the play "Carousel".

Our first stop was at Grand Pre. A number of us bought souvenirs as reminders of our visit.

We then went swimming in a huge new pool at Acadia University.

After supper we went on to the university to see the play. After a visit to the Brazier Burger, we boarded the bus for camp to arrive back here in the wee hours of the morning.

We all enjoyed ourselves thoroughly.

KNESSET 169

A meeting was called, 10 people were selected to head five parties. They were myself and Rhea Simon - Mapai, Steve Hirsh, Shirley Goldstein Mizrahi; Norman Rosenblum, Shirley Spatz - Arab; Garth Nathanson, Sue Chernin - Mapam; Mark Levitz, Merle Bernick - Gachol; Not having a majority we coalated with Gachal.

A Mifkad opened the Knesset. Imediatly Dave Newman became our whip.

We brought up our two bills which were successfully passed.

Suddenly, a new party formed, the Schlecta Bezanis. Imadiately I led my party over to them.

I'm sure we all enjoyed it. In a way it was (M) Ironic.

WHATEVER HAPPENED TO BABY JANE

Action - filled, shocking, tension packed - these are just a few of the adjectives used to describe the fantastic movie "Whatever Happened to Baby Jane?" The acting talents of Bette Davis and Joan Crawford combined to produce this great film. This movie exposed us to the emotions of jealousy between two sisters, eventually leading up to the destruction of, later in the climax, one in death, the other becoming mentally ill. The acting, peat, and background music of this movie created an evening programworth watching.

THE TRIP

Well, what do you know; for the first time in years, the L.I.T.'S and C.I.T.'S received their long deserved half day off without one fight.

Without any hesitation, we assembled in front of the office anxiously waiting the arrival of the taxis. Eventually, the four taxis arrived and we were on our way to Bridgewater (where civilization was at its peak)

First thing on everyones mind was food, glorious food.

Now, the fair is another story. Winning a stuffed animal was everyone's main aim. First, the attention was drawn towards Skee-Ball. First winner was Robin Pascoe who, only after one try won her first stuffed animal and after another try won her second. Well, there you go. Some people have all the luck.

Consequently, since we were all in a gambling mood, money was spent left and right at game booths such as "Oscar", "Colors", "Cats" and many other "jip joints" where it takes pure luck to win.

What a riot the rides were. Mostly everyone went on the Tilt-a-Whirl, Paratrooper, Scrambler, and Ferris Wheel. Of course some went on the good old fashioned Merry-Go-Round.

After everyone had thoroughly enjoyed themselves and had spent their money, it was about to go back to Zellers where everyone had agreed to meet.

When we all did our last minute shopping, buying presents for friends and so on.

Even though we had a perfectly wonderful half day off, we think most of us were happy to return to our home around from home, Camp Kadimah.

Therefore when the taxis arrived outside the front door of Zeller's everyone piled in and we were on our way home.

COUNSELLOR ACTIVITY

"We've got such a staff
Kadimah '69
We'll all be friends
Till the end of time."

The campers have no copyright on fun - the counsellor's activities of Kadimah '69 sure proved this. Together we'll remember our spirited season; together we'll cherish the times of fun and merriment we spent together as planned by our hard - working counsellor Va'ad, Hiltie,

Larry, Ricky, Harold, Green, and Bug.

The activities were varied not only to meet the maxim "variety is the spice of life" but also to facilitate the varying interests of Kadimah's Staff. Perhaps there wasn't enough intellectually stimulating programs but "next year in Kadimah, Bobby!"

Of all the activities perhaps three can be singled out: The gala opening of the reknowned Kadimah Counsellor Lounge (later referred to as the CL), Ricky's and Larry's surprise Birthday Party and the revealing Newly Wed Game...

One night early in July about 50 people huddled around a cabin. There was a murmur of excitement emanating from the gathering. What was going on? Was machst du Kadimah staff? An orgy? Pot? LSD??/ Nein mamma, nein. It's the opening of the KADIMAH CL!!

Spirits ran high especially during the presentations. Larry and Monica, thank you for the "babygood" mobile. Ralph and your associates thanks for your generous contribution: it's such a new record player you can't imagine! And Tzorris, you cannot be forgotten - we shall cherish your memory.

BLACKOUT! "Sush! Bring 'em in. SURPRISE!! Happy Birthday Larry and Ricky! Gee it's great to be 14 and 13!"

That sure was a fate fulfilled night for you Larry and Ricky. The presents were good and even the food was good; and I must not forget to mention the games: Can you imagine (a team Hagshamah?!!) a sheet, a ping pong ball and hot air? Put that one together! And then there was PROBLEMS and SOLUTIONS. For instance, PROBLEM: How do I tell my 9 year old girls about Sex? SOLUTION: Dont let your conscience bother you!

IT SURE WAS FUN!

Last but by no means least, is the recently held newly wed game. Contestants were Mr. & Mrs. A. Schelew, Mr. & Mrs. H. Attis, Mr. & Mrs. J. Shore and Mr. & Mrs. B. Brym. The questions were good, but not half so good as the answers! Let the score speak for the harmony in these marriages: Schelew's - 265; Attis - 155; Shore's - 135 and the Brym's - bring up the rear with 17.5. How well do you know your spouse?

Well, there they were in a nutshell. It was very good year, when we were in our teens at Camp Kadimah...

Camp Kadimah--Ricki Wolfson (age 10)

In Camp Kadimah
The sun shines.
In Camp Kadimah
The ketchep is Heinz.

In Camp Kadimah
The flies bite
In Camp Kadimah
The campers fight.

In Camp Kadimah
The counsellors are mean
In Camp Kadimah
They act like the queen.

In Camp Kadimah
There is running and swimming
In Camp Kadimah
It is hard living.

Pledge--Martha Guss

The blue and yellow Egged bus rolls along the sunny path passing Arabs and chayalim who tramp in the European heat.

The wheels pull up around the hills of the outskirts, until at last the eye can recognize its love, its queen--Jerusalem. There she stands like a jewel one cannot touch or hold without a chill racing through a spine or a horrible longing.

The Central Station is now in sight, and within me there is a crumbling...a fear of my conquest to come. I anticipate my entrance into this pamphlet-type scene--I descend only to lose myself in the mad crowds.

I wander here among faces I have dreamed up in a movement sicha millions of years ago. Now, I am here...my feet solid on cement, yet my head floating and my heart beating stupidly...

I pass a thousand kiosks, a thousand filofel stands, a thousand lame, sickly beggars, chayalim, children, women, teenyboppers, chassadim and tourists. I pass them all, not as a part of them but as a stranger to their culture and tongue.

Yet, I am a Jew..small and silent...with only a song of my past, which has now placed me here in this holy city.

Jerusalem...I will love you in my own simple way.. The mosque and the market-place, the tombs and trucks, the jeeps, the busses, the shops, Judaeen hills and mountains. And the clean, sacred air.

I am making my way down to the Kotel, the Wall, the hope. And, there it is...held and cherished by hands that could be mine for the hour.

As the mighty stone melts slowly into my hand, I know I cannot remain a stranger for long.

Jerusalem... I am with you wherever I may roam...and my tongue will never cleave to the roof of my mouth...

"im ish kacheach Yerushalayim"

A passing good time--Robin Pascoe

it comes and it goes no one controls its beginning or its end.
you leave the next
it all goes too fast
memories, memories, memories-- too many of them
friends, friends, friends
we will always be,
whether in fair or in dark stormy weather
we will be kept together.
north, south, east, west
we disperse to different areas
swimming, running, laughing,
it was really living.
no worries about school or such,
perhaps now and then about the opposite sex.
What did I care about how I looked?
i felt great.
it's over.
We cry.
over a passing good time.

The Hated Provider--Rick Perlin

He's dressed in blue and stands erect
His badge, it reflects the glittering sun
His gun, it dangles at his side, and
He watches, just watches the people go by.

Some students walk by,
They call him names
Bastard, Bum, Brutal pig,
He watches, just watches the people go by.

Some women watch a few paces away
They stare and talk and finally declare
A good man, a just man,
He watches, just watches the people go by.

A man walks by,
He looks and says:
A ticket, a speeding ticket you gave me,
He watches, just watches the people go by.

I stood and watched him all day long
I thought and thought but I could not decide
That if this man tries to do his job,
Why does everyone loath him so?

Waiting For You --Stephen Lawrence

I turn away from my desk thinking and waiting for you.
It is hard to work
and only sleep finds me comfort for it passes the time till you arrive.
I hear your sound banging and rush to the port of entry only to find it was truly the wind or maybe our neighbour returning
(he keeps odd hours with the Globe).
While up to pass the time
(and keep from studying which I blame on you)
I might as well have an orange or banana, an apple perhaps or even raisins
(not California of course).
Then put on Barbara or some facility and gaze into the world
hoping to see you coming;
but your path is not such so I might even open up only to be disappointed
by children playing races or Batman.
Most likely you'll bring no words,
you rarely bring sorrow,
long ago you came with love
but as the seasons pass
I find it hard to find that fine away;
sometimes riches, rarely fame.
Always something for others except now on weekends.

Oh, Mr. Postman,
deliver the mail
So I can return to work in peace.

Commemorative--Bob Brym

The warrior; permanent, poised, cast in copper
For all to see.
The warrior; proud, powerful, cast a glance of arrogance
As the dog raised his leg in salute.

Dream --Rhona Gordon (age 12)

This world must be improved
And we the youth must do it.
We the youth must stop the wars.

End the poverty.
This thought is beautiful.
But we only dream of this.
We must work,
We must make this world come true.

People living
People dying
People fighting,
Working for their land.
We must help,
We must live,die,fight,work,
We must improve this world.
It is in our keeping.

Over? --Anonymous

I sometimes wonder if we had never had this thing
where I would be now.
What would I feel like
If?
You came so suddenly and yet so sweetly
into my life.
Then I left.
You stayed in my mind and my heart but I ruined you
for me.
You are gone now really?
Forever?
I can't believe this--
I love you,boy--
But is it really love when
You hurt a person so much?
As I did.
You are a feeling
I cannot get out of me
I don't want to!
And yet
it hurts to think of you
You were so kind and I
So foolishly stupid.
Will this feeling of guilt
Ever end?I hope not.
I don't want any feeling of you to ever end--
Good or bad.

Why Question It?--Stephen Lawrence

Does the leisure time
in my mist
Give way to the fantasies around me?
Or do I love again
did I once?

I love to caress the innocence of your face
And hold your warm hand
close to mine;
Yet we are strangers
drawing nearer?

I think it too early to tell,
But why question it?
Why not hope what I may?

Smoke --Merle Bernick

It is exhaled out,full of life.
It deperately strives to cover
the entire room in its short life.
Then slowly it drifts aimlessly to the ceiling,never to be seen again.
Man is lit with the spark of life.
In the beginning he wanders aimlessly about,unknowing of his presence in the world.
Suddenly he is aware and tries to fulfill his short life.
But he too is destined to disappear.

Boredom -- Shawna Perlin

The world is empty
It's hollow
The wind blows,the seasons
They're alone.
The leaves love -they rustle
But no where to go
It darkens;twilight comes
Now I am alone.

What is Charity--Rick Perlin

What is your first reaction when you walk down the main street of your town and see a no-legged man playing a harmonica, or a blind man selling pencils? Better still, What do you do? Do you feel it is your duty to give to this so-called unfortunate person, or do you sincerely want to help this man? Then again, you might walk on by as if this person didn't even exist. This latter point, to some extent does seem acceptable. It is true that we are basically attracted to only those people that are close to us, may they be our family, relatives, or friends. And therefore it might be hard to feel an attachment to a total stranger. To put in a simpler form: if any close friend of yours was starving, you would do anything in your power to feed him and nurse him back to health, because you know him, but you would find it hard to go out of your way to help someone who you would pass on the street. Since you don't know the stranger, you would be indifferent towards him. Thus it seems excusable to some extent for a person thinking this way to walk by, and not give a damn.

The fact is, what is charity? Why is it looked upon as such a degrading thing? You know it must be just great and dandy for people to sit at a $100 a-plate dinner for charity, gawking and chatting about life, while all the time they know it is tax-deductable. It sure must be quite entertaining for a mother whose husbands' income is in the 30,000 dollar and up bracket to do some charity work as an entertaining hobby, it must keep them quite busy. Is this what charity was meant to be? Charity was meant to be given out of a conscientious feeling because society expects you to give to the unfortunate, or do people give from real altruistic feelings?

But one must consider the person on the receiving end. Why do some of these people reject any charity? Because they are too proud to accept it? Or why do some blind people refuse your help when you ask them if you need it? I believe that these people feel that their pride is being dented and I can't blame them because people do look down on those who receive charity. Is it that unethical to help someone? Why does the government offer a package deal to the public; that is, if you give to charity, it will be tax-deductable. Why is it a necessity for the government to do this? Are people that apathetic and unconcerned? It seems that this is the only answer because how else would the people be encouraged to give unless there was a special deal.

The fact is, is it so degrading to give and receive charity? That is the question we must ask ourselves. For I cannot help but think that we as members of this society have made charity degrading to some extent. And because of this public pattern of thinking people don't really give from the "gut", but only out of conviction. Why is charity always connected with just dollars and cents? For example, the man who is asked, "Would you like to help us at the underprivileged camp?" The man replies, "No, but here is $50 and don't bother me." Or the mothers in the Hadassah Organization who decide to help unfortunate children in Asia, so they get all dolled up in their $500 dresses and stand on a corner asking people to "Buy a tag and save a child." Or the person who gives $1.00 to a blind man selling pencils, and tells his friends "Who says I don't care?"

The thing that bothers me to no end is the damn bloody way in which charity is looked at. Why do people only connect charity with money? Why can't people connect charity with other useful things? Why is charity something special, why do people have to feel special when they give to charity? Can't a charitable act be a normal instinct? Does it require a minute of duration? Can't it be done without any thought at all? Eating and going to sleep are natural instincts--can't charity be one?

Dear Mary-Jane

Dear Mary-Jane,
I am just writing to say I have no need for you this summer. Everything went just great. You lose.

Burnt Before But not Again

Dear Burnt Before But not Again,
In the lexicon of common parlence I guess it's Shlechte Bezanes for me.

Dear Mary-Jane,
After following up a tremendous summer with a very disheartening one, I am now on the verge of dangerous depression. What should I do?

Suicidal

Dear Suicidal,
You're right--do away with yourself!

Dear Mary-Jane,
I have a very unusual problem. Whenever I mention something to my boyfriend, I can always formulate his response in my mind and I have a habit of telling him what he is thinking. What is the solution?
Psychic

Dear Psychic,
Shut up.

Dear Mary-Jane,
This summer I am faced with a problem of very unruly campers. If this keeps up my fate is that much worse than death. Please, help.
Help Appreciated

Dear Help Appreciated,
One solution which always works is play sick and they'll probably put you in the infirmary for the summer.

Dear Mary-Jane,
I used to have this real thing about Hats. But it is over. Then I had this thing about beards. But it got over quickly.
I need someone to love and to love and to love and to love.
Loveless

Dear Loveless,
Who wants hats and beards. Just find someone to love.

Red Team Marching Song - (tune - Zip-pi-dee-doo-da)

Trails of sorrow, trails of grief,
 A long, long journey but we've turned a new leaf.
 Always upbeat, working as one,
 The Red Team has ruach in work and in fun.
 As we fight to gain our freedom,
 With that goal we'll strive until the end.

SUPPORTERS OF THE COVENANT

Yellow Team's Marching Song - (tune- Windy)

Since the beginning of the Jewish people
Mishaney Ha'Brit has fulfilled our aim
Of keeping our heritage, never forgetting
Our promised return to Zion.

We have suffered all through the ages
Through the Pharoahs to the Nazis
Masada and Warsaw, we kept the covenant
Our promised return to Zion.

And with our freedom gained, we have fulfilled our aim
And we'll always be there to keep our pledge
The Covenant.

CAPTAINS MESSAGE

It has been three weeks since we met together in Maccabia, but just as its memory is clear in our minds now, we know it will always be vivid.

But what do we remember most when we look back to this hectic week crammed full of so many cultural and athletic events? Without hesitation we agree that it is YOU - the campers and counsellors who have made this week such a memorable and rewarding one. Maccabia gave us the opportunity to establish new friendships outside of those formed through our participation in regular activities. We found ourselves working together, sharing with all teams and all age groups that special spirit that only Maccabia creates.

To Lev Habriya, we say a warm thank you. We remember the anticipation before our first team meeting, not only of how you would react to you, but also of how you would react to us. However, these apprehensions soon disappeared. Everyone was so great; eager, and helpful. As soon as we agreed on a name "Heart of Creation" we lived up to it creating a Maccabia we would always remember.

And so for one week every heart of white team beat on as one, each member complementing the other. But now Maccabia is over. The camp season quickly draws to a close. We as the campers and staff have for six weeks been "the heart of creation" of Kadimah '69. Here we have created in a Jewish atmosphere, friendships and memories we shall never forget. It is our hope as captains of Lev Habriya that the heart of our team, the heart of Kadimah '69 and the heart of the Jewish people will

"beat on, beat on,
and never die"

MACCABIAH

EVENTS

Track & Field- Sharna Perlin (age 14)

I woke up to a misty foggy Monday morning. The big question in my mind was that of track and field. Was it to be held or not? The judges kept us in suspicion until after breakfast. The final decision was definitely yes. Everything would be held as usual.

The 40 & 60 yard dashes were held first. Many good times were turned in for both campers and counsellors. The novelty races followed including the three legged race, the wheelbarrow races and the shoe kick.

The field events held during the rest of the week were very exciting. The juniors tested their abilities at the broadjump pit while older campers and counsellors performed the high jump and the trick jump.

The final results in this events were Red Team winning track and Blue Team winning field.

Regatta - Shelly Cohen (age 14)

" Everyone proceed to the waterfront for regatta "

Regatta/ It was the second event of Maccabia. All the teams came ready to put all the hard work they had into the Maccabia Regatta. With four boats and four canoes in the water awaiting their passengers event number one was announced.

Each event consisted of various things. Rowboat races, canoe races, handpaddles and paddle boards etc..

With yelling, cheering and an excess amount of excitement the winners were red team members with the others coming close behind,

Swim Meet - Rhea Simon (age 15)

On tuesday morning the swimming competition was scheduled but was cancelled due to disheartning weather. Other activities were carried on in place of the swim meet. Finally on Wednesday which was still not a beautiful day the swim meet took place. All four teams were full of spirit and ready to go. In each event there were about two people entered from each team. The distance was one length across the pool. The judge would say, "Get ready, on your mark go " and off they would. There were four places in each heat. Each place was timed. After the swimming, relays began with juniors, inters, seniors and counsellors taking part. Finally the swim meet was over with white winning, then came red, blue and yellow. If you wish, ask any junior inter, senior or counsellor, and they'll tell you how they enjoyed the swim meet.

Arts and Crafts in the New Maccabiah

--Bill Davidson (age 15)

To me, this year's AAC in the 1969 New Maccabiah has meant a great deal due to the obvious reason that I was involved. All teams worked very diligently on their AAC Display and all revealed an excellent showing for the judges. All competing teams worked on their banners to their own disgression and as a result, all banners were a pleasant sight to see. I was surprised and excited to finally realize that Sue Cohen and myself had made something of Bobb's design for our Blue Team banner and had won over the other three teams even though the scores were extremely close. All in all, this year's AAC and the whole New Maccabiah was a great experience for everyone in which the whole camp participated and fully enjoyed--I hope it will retain its significance in the future.

Drama-- Robin Pascoe (age 16)

The drama presentations this year were certainly something to speak of-- whether it be something good or bad. The amount of time to prepare for the drama presentations was cut quite short due to the weather conditions which caused rescheduling of different activities. This Maccabiah, two teams decided to try their hand at comedy, one being a satire and the other being straight comedy. Both were enjoyed by all. The white and red teams dramas were in a more serious note. These went over with even greater success. Maccabiah Drama will certainly live on.

The Giant Redley-- Nancy Epstein (age 15)

How can one say who wins a Maccabathon? Sure, in the end the first boiled water comes first for the team, though the individuals exert themselves to the utmost, worrying about dropping the pole, about coring first, and trying for their captains. How can eight and nine year olds comprehend their captains as they are telling them that they must leapfrog with all of their might. It isn't or shouldn't be a matter of life and death, yet, when the water was being heated, people had to turn their heads, grit their teeth, and clench their teeth as they couldn't bear the agony of waiting. In Maccabathon, the main reward should be that each participant is satisfied with his effort-- how can I say that? Everyone knows that the final result is the most important. Well, what do you think? If an individual tries with all his might in his one lap of crawl but in the final stages of the race, a pot of water won't boil over the fire, has he really lost? The official results were as such; 1. Blue; 2. White; 3. Red; and 4. Yellow.

Maccabiah Song and Dance- Anita Pineberg (age 15)

As usual preparation for Maccabiah song and dance seemed to be a last minute affair of trying to teach the juniors their dances, learning words and harmony to songs and, in general, doing the entire program the afternoon of the presentation. But ready or not the show must go on and so Thursday night--the last night of Maccabiah the teams exhibited their talents. Red team opened the program with their songs and dances following the theme of the suffering of the Jews through the ages.

The narration carried the theme so well that the entire presentation went smoothly from one thing to the next. Red won the song and dance with white second, blue third, and of course yellow bringing up the rear. During the entire evening everyone was impatient as results were announced after the completion. However everyone enjoyed themselves and spirit prevailed- the most important thing, being, having fun.

MARCHPAST --Debbie Garson

This year's Maccabia opened with the tradition of Marchpast. The preparation of the display was extremely dull and tiring but the actual performance brought out great pride. At first, the spirit which was created was bad. All participants were unwilling to march-- they considered it a task. It was amusing that although the judges were resented, they received the greatest applause. Also, we were all forced to "smile for the judges" by the cheerleaders. All this just for extra points and good impressions. This opinion is that of a newcomer to camp and is probably exaggerated.

Although Maccabia included many restrictions, the main objective was to have fun and this purpose was fulfilled.

Maccabia --Jeff Cohen

Maccabia this year was very thrilling. The teams were put together very evenly which resulted in a very close Maccabia. Although Maccabia was good, the weather wasn't. (especially during our most important event). The sportsmanship was superb as was the spirit. Little did the teams know that this year was to be the closest Maccabia ever in the history of Camp Kadimah. Everyone worked their hardest so their team could win.

The teams' names were: Heart of Creation (White), Fountained Trails, (Red) Hagshamah (Blue) and Supporters of the Covenant (Yellow). They were all good teams.

This year's Decathalon entries were Alan Meyers, Martin Zatzman, Sammy Fried and Mark Rosen, not in that order. Marty Zatzman was presented with the laurel leaf to symbolize the winning of the Decathalon.

But of course only one team can win... and WHITE TEAM won.

BLUE TEAM came second, RED placed third, and for the second year in a row the YELLOW TEAM came last. But at least everyone had fun, and that was the main thing.

My opinion of Maccabia is "IT WAS WONDERFUL!!". Many other people agree with me.

Dining Hall Songs

White Team - (Lamenatzea)

The heart of creation's beating on
Never to pause
Never to falter
The heart of creation's beating on;
The seed becomes a plant
Always to be cared for.
Through history and through time
The people, they will find
That right before their eyes, they will see.
La, la, la.

Chorus
The people have survived
And what's the reason why
A song on their lips, soaring high
To the endless sky.
Chorus.

Blue Team-British Grenadiers

The red and white and yellow are very, very good.
They run and swim and dance just like they know they should.
And they will be remembered as teams which cannot die.
With a rah and a cheer and a jump and a shout
To the forefront they could fly
But for all their seeming virtues
They can't discount our team.
We're the BLUE, we will win, HAGSHAMAH is our name,
To the forefront we will fly.

The red and white and yellow have all the things that count.
They jump and scream and holler as their total points do mount.
Their captains have great courage, they hope to lead their teams.
With ruzh and yazma and sportsmanship to this year's victory.
But for all their seeming virtues
They can't discount our team.
We're the BLUE, we will win, HAGSHAMAH is
our name
The victors we will be.
We're the BLUE, we will win, HAGSHAMAH is
our name.
The victors we will be.

Red Team-(Good Morning Starshine)

Through times of trouble
Through years of strife
We've wandered distant shores
In quest of new life
Through hardships and sorrows
The trails have survived
And one day soon we will find
The trails come alive.

Wandering, hoping and dreaming
The tortures of life we must bear
Sorrows we hide in our hearts
But still a great spirit is there
Spirit to drive us, love to unite us,
All those wounded trails shall soon
be passed,
Wounded trails at last they shall be passed.

Yellow Team-(Modu La Sultan)

Although our rights have been deprived
Through ages past we have survived
With peace in mind Mishaney Ha'brit have kept their faith because They have a pact with G-d to keep their home with Yisrael
We shall not fail
The Jews believe in peace and love
For all the world should live above all pain
all war
Mishaney Ha'brit will keep in mind
The past and find an answer true for all mankind
Once more we say
We'll find the way
Today and onwards
We will try to win
to win
to win
Our freedom once again.

CRAZY FOR THE RED, WHITE, BLUE AND YELLOW!

CHORUSMACCABIA '69

White Team(Ob La Di)

Ob la di,ob la da,white goes on,rah!
Heart of creation beats on.

New Maccabia! New Maccabia!
Long may it reign!

Blue Team(Air)

Shalom to all the teams
Say bye to all your dreams
Blue team(2) is in the air
Breathe deep,breathe deep,defeat
Hag-hag-Hagshama.

Red Team(Bajsep Shelanu)

The red team has the spirit that will win
Maccabia.
The yellow,white and blue may fight
But in the end they'll fall.
Good luck to you in any case,despite our spoken threat.
We will see you at the end of our trail...

Yellow Team(Falling through a hole...)

Barry:Winning Maccabia is sportsmanship.
Carol:Winning Maccabia is hard work.
Both:We're trying like the devil for Maccabia.
We're falling on our faces for Maccabia.
HELP!!
Team:Don't let us down,this time around.
Crazy for the red,white and blue(2)
You look at us,what do you see?
Crazy for the red,white and blue(2)
'Cause we're so different,
We've got the ruach.
Crazy for the red,white and blue(2)
My heart beats true,for the red, white and blue.
Crazy for the red,white and blue.
Crazy for the red,white,blue and yellow,
yellow,yellow!

ORIGINAL SONGS--MACCABIA '69

WHITE TEAM

I stand outside your door
A stranger to your faith
I cannot enter in your home
I cannot understand the language of your life
And how your people had to roam.

CHORUS:

So don't you ever try to offer me your hand
I've held a hand before and now I understand
Brotherhood is a thing that's deeper than the skin
Think twice before you let me in.

I've travelled distances and heard the people cry
That they don't know the reason why
The world's a hellish place and life is just a game
And yet it's written we're the same.

White Team Original Song (continued)

I had a friend one time
His skin as black as coal
I loved him and he loved me too
Together we would go about our different worlds
A humble black man and a Jew.

Maybe if I could feel that you would understand that what we need is just one land
To live to learn and love and help our fellowman
'Til that time alone I'll stand.

Repeat chorus.

Blue Team Original Song (Born Free)

Wandering with chains upon us
In a world of torture and a world dark with hate
Stopping and always pushed back
Always rejected by every closed eye and hand
Hoping with heartfelt tears
That freedom would come along ,fulfilling the years
To break our chains and set us free
In a new homeland where we can live in peace.

Fighting and never ceasing
Aliens surrounding our borders disturbing our peace
Children left forlorn and homeless
To fulfil their dreams in what the future will bring.
Soldiers marching onward to battle
Marching on to their destiny for freedom and life.
The answer is in our surviving
The thousands of years of starvation and sorrow passed by.

It's not over in our wandering lore
We're still trudging onward in search for a helping hand.
Relentless are we in our searches
For together with faith,good deeds and courage we band
The answer is in our surviving and fulfilling
Our nations' dreams to the very end.
Born to be slaves,longing for freedom
A brotherhood of dignity and justice to uphold our rights.

Red Team Original Song

(The Times They Are A-Changing)

Come all ye young Jews,come from near and from far
Our lives must be lived,how important they are
To be loved,to be cherished and wanted by all.
We know acceptance is hard but it shan't matter at all
It's a world filled with sorrow,a world of distress
But our trail will still be unwinding.

There are sheltered young hearts who know nothing of fear
They have never been hurt and have shed not a tear
Salvaging little and gathering much
They will play with most children but some they won't touch
Will they ever be harmed,shamed or inflamed
As our trail must still keep unwinding.

In the past we've been punished,been slaughtered,been shelled
Pharoah fought against Moses
The Jews couldn't be held
The Germans sought hard to destroy all our pride
By dictating our minds and by killing each stride
Let us hope that this world will restrain from more pain
As our trail still keeps unwinding.

YELLOW TEAM ORIGINAL SONG(One More Town)

For every heart that cares,there is another,
Living for a dream that might come true
If every heart could share that common feeling
What a lot of good this world could do.

Within the needs of us,there lies a nation,
Ready to accept us from the pain of the past
And like a mother's arms,her warmth can fill us
With the spirit to belong at last.

But as we find our place we must remember
Universal goals for love and peace.
From each his own shall come a gift of meaning
To be presented to mankind as one.

Du,Du,Du,etc...

Repeat first verse slowly.
